Live only to serve, to serve food seemed to be the motto that guided Ms Dokka Seetamma all through her life. Popular as Apara Annapoorna, Ms Dokka Seetamma was born in October 1841 at Mandapeta of East Godavari District. Her father, Mr Bhavani Sankaram offered food to anyone who came to them hungry. Seetamma's mother died when she was just six. And Seetamma had to shoulder her mother's responsibility of serving food to the needy. Thus started habit of cooking and serving food lasted for four-plus decades. Even after her marriage to Dokka Joganna and her moving to Lankala Gannavaram, she didn't do anything else except cooking and serving food. King Edward VII honoured her for her philanthropy by placing her photograph at a function. An aqueduct on the Godavari was named after her. And her statue finds a place in Vivekananda Park in Kakinada.

- i. What is the motto that guided Ms Dokka Seetamma all through her life?
- ii. Where was Ms Seetamma born?
- iii. Why did she start serving food since the time she was six?
- iv. How long did she continue in her mission of serving food?

A sentence contains a subject and a predicate. The subject may contain a noun or noun equivalent. In a predicate, the verb is the most important one. If the verb is in transitive form, it has an object. An object again has a noun or noun equivalent. If the verb is in intransitive form, it takes no object. An intransitive verb may have a word or a group of words with it.
